

Disclaimer. Risks declaration.

Dear User!

Archie Advisor Project (hereinafter referred to as the Archie Project) asks you to carefully read this document.

This disclaimer is designed to protect you from losses or receiving services and software that you do not need.

Acceptance of this document means that you are warned about the possible difficulties and risks of using the Archie software product.

After you click the "I have read and agree with the risks in the Disclaimer (Declaration of Risk)" you take all the risks outlined in this document. The Archie project is not responsible for the risks listed below.

I. Risk of your device mismatch with the minimum technical requirements.

Your personal computer or other device with which you will use the Archie software product must meet the following minimum technical requirements. For the stable work of one unit of the software product, you need:

- terminal MT4 / MT5;
- 512 MB of random access memory;
- 2 Gb HDD / SSD drive;
- Windows 7 and above / Mac OS.

If your computer or other device with which you will use the Archie software product does not meet the above requirements, please do not purchase the software product.

II. Risks when choosing a broker, depository and financial instruments.

The Archie project is not a broker or depository, it does not organize exchange trading, it does not provide financial services. Information about brokers, depositories, the Forex market, financial instruments that you receive when using the Archie software product or on the site is not a recommendation for cooperation with the brokers or the depositories and the use of specific financial instruments.

Before you start using the services of a broker and depositing money, we recommend:

- study the information on the Internet about the reliability of this broker / depository / financial instrument, their rating according to various parameters;
- to study information about the rules of the broker, the rules for depositing and returning a deposit, the rules for using the services of a broker whose services you want to use;
- use the services of an independent professional financial consultant.

The Archie project is NOT responsible for the actions of the broker under any circumstances and conditions, including, but not excluding - in case of violation of the rules of the broker or the rules of deposit or refund.

III. Forex market Risks.

The Archie project is not a partner and does not have any contractual relations with the Forex market.

The information on the site, as well as information received during the use of the Archie software product, is not an offer or financial advice or recommendation to start trading on the Forex market in any form and should not be considered as recommendations for such actions.

If you decide to trade in the Forex market, you must understand that trading in the Forex market is highly risky. There are high risks of loss while making a profit.

Before starting trading on the Forex market, we recommend:

- study the information on the Internet about the Forex market (Forex), about the risks of this market, the rules of trade;
- study the specific features of trading on the Forex market (Forex);
- use the services of an independent professional financial consultant.

Information about the Forex market, analytical and other materials (signals, advices, etc.) received in connection with the use of the Archie software product are NOT a recommendation for trading on Forex market. Any signals, opinions, warnings, alerts, promises, etc. are only assumptions based on the experience of the Archie project. The Archie project DOES NOT guarantee the receiving a profit in the Forex (Forex) market, including using the Archie software product. There is no guarantee of 100% reliability of the information generated by the Archie software product.

The Archie project is not a financial instrument and does not provide fund management services, including funds raised from third parties. We recommend you do not consider trading in the Forex market as a regular income.

The Archie project is NOT responsible for your decision to trade in the Forex (Forex) market and your trading in the Forex (Forex) market.

You are responsible for your own decisions and trading on the Forex market (both for profit and loss). We recommend that possible losses are limited by the size of your deposit placed by you on brokerage accounts.

IV. TECHNICAL RISKS.

We warn you about the risks associated with different technical reasons (technical failures in the Forex market, telecommunications network operation, etc.) that lead to inconsistency or distortion of the information and signals provided by the Archie software product.

Using Archie software product, you take the risks connected with software malfunction, telecommunication equipment and other technical problems.

V. RISK OF LACK OF EXPERIENCE.

To minimize the possibility of losses, you will need to gain experience for a sufficiently long time. Be careful when trading in the Forex market using the Archie software product. Watch for its proper operation on your device. If there is a risk of loss, You should contact the Archie project support team and follow the instructions of a specialist.

Using the Archie software product, you refuse any claims to the Archie project related to compensation for potential losses that are indirectly or obviously caused by the use of the Archie software product.

VI. LEGAL RISKS.

We warn you that the use of the Archie software product may be subject to certain legal restrictions. As the User of the Archie software product, you understand and agree all restrictions or prohibitions in the jurisdiction of the country in which you are located. If you violate the ban then all responsibility for any damage lies on you.

The Archie project is not responsible to you in case of financial losses due to the entry into force of new or changing of already existed legal acts. Legal risk also includes the possibility of financial loss for you due to the absence or ambiguity of legal acts directly or indirectly regulating the activities of the Forex market, brokers and depositories.

VII. FORCE MAJEURE

Archie project is not responsible for losses due to force majeure circumstances: hostilities, terrorist acts, natural disasters, currency interventions, decisions of government and administrative bodies.

As soon as you start using the Archie software product, you take all of the above risks.